FLOOR DEBATE

March 6, 2002

LB 82

that...the result is, is the client is deported, well, then there should be some sanctions against that attorney. But the bottom line is, is that if that individual...if the...if the defendant is deported, how do you...how do you remedy that? Because the attorney made an error, how do you remedy the deportation? I think this is a minor thing, it's a three- to five-second phrase that the judge has to read in addition to some other things, I assume, and it...it seems to...it goes a long ways towards protecting these people's rights. Senator Beutler also mentioned that this would...this in potential...or potentially could vacate sentences. And if you go on to read the...the...Section 13, the only way that the sentence could be vacated is if...in line 6 it says may have the consequences for the defendant from the removal...or for the removal from the United States. So, the only way the sentence could be vacated is if it resulted in deportation. So I think it's a fairly innocuous statement of three to five seconds the court has to read. I...I don't see the harm, but I see great protection for our...for our people here. And again, I rise in opposition to Senator Beutler's amendment. Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Aguilar.

SENATOR AGUILAR: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members of the body, first of all, I rise also in opposition to the amendment, and I agree with everything Senator Bourne said. I'd like to thank him for his comments. One thing I want to point out that, you know, what we're talking about does really happen in everyday situation. I get calls, and I've been to the Omaha Correction Center and there are people in there...there's gentlemen in there who have served their time, and they're not released. They are issued a hold order. When that happens, they just have to stay there and they have to wait for the immigration (inaudible) and they're deported instantly. Now my question is...is...do...do any of these people that are under that scenario, did they get the proper advice? Were they advised on how they should plead or not? I think in a lot of cases probably not. For those reasons, I oppose the amendment. Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Chambers.
